PROFILE \

Ar. Ng San Son is an accomplished designer specializing in crafting spaces that foster emotional and functional connections. With an open-minded and exploratory design philosophy, he skilfully integrates architectural intent, adapts spaces innovatively, and plays with light and shadows, collaborating closely with clients to bring their visions to life.

His diverse portfolio showcases design excellence across various typologies, notably the HomeTeamNS Khatib Clubhouse, which redefines home and community, the SAFRA Choa Chu Kang design with its exuberant form inspiring fitness within nature, and the NEW CMPB project—an innovative hybrid typology merging service, institution, fitness, community, and commercial functions with a forward-looking, collaborative approach.

Named one of Singapore's top twenty promising architects under 45 by the Urban Redevelopment Authority, he serves on the Board of Architects safeguarding professional ethics and practice, and as a design tutor at the National University of Singapore's Department of Architecture.
