

Wang, Xinyi

RESEARCH AREA: Public Housing, Gentrification, Urban Renewal

Department of Architecture,
College of Design and Engineering,
National University of Singapore,
4 Architecture Drive, Singapore
117566

Email:
xinyi.xinyi_w@u.nus.edu

Google Scholar

ResearchGate

LinkedIn

Xinyi is a PhD candidate in Architecture at the National University of Singapore, working under the supervision of Prof. Heng Chye Kiang. She holds a Master of Arts in Urban Design from NUS.

Her current research focuses on the unintended consequences of neighborhood change arising from Singapore's public housing (HDB) diversification policies, examining the relationship between housing policy and urban gentrification. Her research interests also extend to comparative urban governance, renewal strategies and housing policy between China and Singapore.